CARE

Student Assistance Program

A no-cost, personal support program for Heald students and their families.

While college can be an exciting time in life, it can be a very challenging time as well. Sometimes the reality of attending school, combined with personal problems and the pressures of everyday life, can create a stressful situation.

A problem could be related to school, like time management or staying motivated, or it could be something else, such as anxiety, handling a separation or divorce, or a financial crisis.

At a time like that, where do you go for help? Where can you get the professional and reliable advice you might need to stay on track and stay in school?

Heald College offers CARE, a special program that gives enrolled students direct and confidential access to counseling professionals who can help you stay focused on your goals during tough times.

With one phone call you can begin the process of being connected with a qualified counselor or mental health professional for help with a wide array of personal, legal, family or financial concerns.

Here are just some of the issues you can receive help with:

Family

- Blended Families
- Family Conflicts
- Parenting
- Roommate Conflicts
